"Multiply and replenish the world" is the divine command.

Bollinger county is doing her part.

You can begin to hear a little political whispering on the quiet.

It won't be very quiet in two months from now.

What will we be a hundred years hence? Notice the first issue of the Press in 1894 and see what its prophecies.

A Cape Girardeau policeman has been in prison for stealing $20.

Cape Girardeau has always had a rotten police force.

The expense of boarding prisoners at Fredericktown, again reminds our people very forcibly of the necessity of a county jail.

Marble Hill should build neither north, south, nor east. It should build toward Lutesville. Respectfully referred to George E. Conrad.

The work of Mayfield-Smith academy is daily becoming better known, and pupils are coming in from all parts of the state and from other states.

The appearance of the advertising columns of the Press bespeak the prosperous and wide awake merchant in the Twin Cities. The fossil never advertises.

The population of Bollinger county will be greatly increased within the next year, if the big list of marriage licenses that have been issued in the past few months count for anything.

The excellent work being done in our public schools this year, shows a healthy sentiment in favor of better preparation by teachers. Longer terms and better salary is the next reform that should come.

The works of the Glen Allen Kaolin mining company should have been placed on this side of Glen Allen, looking to bet union with the Twin Cities. This matter is respectfully referred to Superintendent Reilly, whom they speak of so highly.

In his message to congress President Cleveland recommends the abolishment of the fee system in the Federal courts. It should be abolished in every office. Pay an officer a salary commensurate with the work and dignity of the office, and better government will result.

Congress met last Monday. The principal measure before it will be the Wilson bill, the tariff reform measure, to which the party stand pledged. It reduces the duty on raw materials, placing many of them on the free list. It opens to the manufacturer the markets of the world, and reduces the price of the necessities of life to the consumer. It is a good measure, and with a few revisions, perhaps, deserves the hearty support of the united Democracy.

That special Glen Allen edition of the Press, was the finishing nail in the structure of our prosperity. Editor Allen is never asleep.

Glen Allen will have a beautiful Christmas tree. There will also be an appropriate literary program delivered by members of the Sunday school.

Prof. J. M. Allen is the right man in the right place. We have one of the leading educators of the county in charge of our school, and it is having its effort.

Prof. Graves, Misses Sue Bell Graves and Clara D. True visited the Glen Allen literary society last Friday night. Prof. Graves gave the society a nice address. Misses True and Graves favored it with recitations. Miss Graves is, beyond doubt the best elocutionist in the county, and Miss True merits the position she holds.
